

CONTENTS

List of maps, tables and figures, illustrations	10
Foreword to the English edition	13
Acknowledgments	14
INTRODUCTION — The Hidden Criterion	17
1. Age and its manifestations in eastern Africa	17
2. The choice of the Meru Tigania-Igembe and the conditions of the study	25
3. A Summary of the book	35
4. Ethnonyms and languages in use	37
PART ONE
Puzzling Generations: or, How the System Really Worked
CHAPTER 1 — Making a way through life	41
1. Childhood	42
2. The life cycle of men	45
3. The life cycle of women	47
4. Age grades, individual progressions, and human longevity	50
5. The ages of life and the measurement of time	56
CHAPTER 2 — Mastering the succession of generations	63
1. A foundation course in the system	64
2. The recruitment of male sets	66
3. Ntuiko , or the handover of power and the progression of male sets	70
4. Women in the generation-set system	77
5. The dynamics of the system and control of demographic drift	85
PART TWO
Multivocal Generations: Weaving Kinship and Politics
CHAPTER 3 — Family, residence and territory	95
1. The family kraal and means of subsistence	96
2. The mũcũ cycle	106
3. Inheritance and dispersal	113
4. The meanings of mwiriga	118

CHAPTER 4 — Composite kinship	125
1. The vocabulary of kinship: terms and attitudes	125
2. The uthoni alliance and matrimonial compensation	131
3. The ndúgá payments and the maternal uncle	145
4. First assessment	157
CHAPTER 5 — Alliance, filiation and generation system: from one gaaru to another	161
1. The myth of Mbugi, Murutu and Mukunga	161
2. The two sisters and the lonely hunter	168
3. On the proper use of the gaaru	177
4. Affinity, filiation and the generation system	182
5. Kinship and political institutions: a comparative trek	192
PART THREE
Ritual as Means of Government
CHAPTER 6 — The state of warrior	203
1. Sets and initiation: the rituals of circumcision	203
2. The warrior gaaru : a description of the structures	213
3. “Establishing” and “uprooting” the warrior gaaru	218
4. Warriors in what war?	221
5. Warriorhood: a junction of contradiction	233
ANNEX — The sacred lake of the Nyambene Hills	240
CHAPTER 7 — Sets and powers of women	243
1. From group of uninitiated girls to set of spouses	243
2. Sets of women and organization of power	258
3. The kaaria through singing	262
4. The transmission of the kaaria	268
CHAPTER 8 — The Fathers of the country, the múgwe and the blacksmith	277
1. The Igembe múgwe and the handover of power	279
2. The situation in Tigania and neighboring groups	285
3. The person and position of the múgwe	291
4. The unclassifiable blacksmith and his double	303
CHAPTER 9 — Mbwaa, or the drama of suspended time	313
1. The sources of the story	314
2. Mbwaa in its variations	316
3. Between earth and sky, the renewal of the world	324
4. Mbwaa outside of Mbwaa	332
5. A historian in Utopia	336
ANNEX — The story of Kamankura	347

PART FOUR

Confronting Modernity: Ritual Rivalries and Demographic Issues

CHAPTER 10 — The colonial intrusion and the crisis of authority	351
1. Event and structures: the course of the colonial era (1908-1963)	352
2. Dismembered polity, ailing bodies	363
3. The empowerment and decline of the njuri ncheke	372
4. Male initiation: between affirmation and nostalgia	384
CHAPTER 11 — A change of demographic regime	387
1. Retrospective accounts	388
2. The demology of the old Tigania-Igembe	392
3. New challenges, new practices	399
4. Navigating through numbers	406
Conclusion	413
Appendixes
a. Evaluation of written sources. Accounts from early travellers and colonial archives	417
b. Territorial sections and sub-sections of the Tigania-Igembe, after the list of Headmen in office in 1918	423
c. Book review by Bernardo Bernardi (2000)	427
Glossary	431
Bibliography	437
Index	455
Illustrations	465
Illustrations credits	495